ELECTRICIAN BURNED BY RAIN-SOAKED WIRES

George Kellerman Narrowly Escaped Being Electrocuted.

FINGERS BADLY SEARED

George Kellerman, a well known young man of Bellefonte, employed by the American Lime & Stone Co. as an electrician's helper, had his left hand burned severely and suffered considerably from shock, when part of the current from a line carrying 2,200 volts passed through his body on Saturday afternoon. Fortunately, he was not burned seriously and is recovering rapidly from the shock, but it will be some time before he can return to work. Two of his fingers were seared to the bones.

Mr. Kellerman was engaged in putting a protecting fence about a large transformer. He was alone at the time. As it had rained considerably, the wires to and from the transformer were very wet. Kellerman was standing in mud and water at the time of the accident. He took hold of a wire at a point where a connection had been made, but which was heavily taped, and was reaching for a nail. The tape was soaked with rain and part of the current passed through Kellerman's body and into the ground. At one place in his shoe, a nail touched his foot and caused the flesh to be burned slightly.

HAS CLEAR FIELD

No Democratic Candidate for Legislature Against Holmes.

J. Laird Holmes, of State College, candidate for Republican nomination for the Legislature, apparently will have no opposition at either the primaries on April 22nd, or the general election next November. John Condo, who was urged to become a Democratic candidate, stated this week that his nomination petition had not been filed in time to have his name printed on the primary election ballot. This situation is unique in Centre County politics, since the election of Mr. Holmes is assured even before he is formally nominated.

It is stated that a petition has been circulated to place the name of G. Oscar Gray, of Bellefonte, on the primary ballot for re-election as Democratic County Chairman. Mr. Gray had contemplated retiring from the chairmanship, but apparently has agreed to serve for another term.

State College Man Wandered.

Delos Lewis VanDine, a young man of State College, was taken into custody by police at Sunbury when he was found asleep on a concrete culvert near that city by a motor party. He had wandered away from home about a week ago and stopped at Bellefonte, Lock Haven, Williamsport and Sunbury, in search of work. In a diary he had in his pocket items telling briefly of his experiences were found. At Lock Haven he sold one of two .45 calibre revolvers with which he had provided himself and at various places he cashed checks along his way. He slept in woods several night. He had been ill recently and seemed troubled, but his father, who went to him, said he knew of nothing that should worry him.

Mrs. Mountz to Address Meeting.

All Republicans, men and women, are invited to attend a meeting in the library of the Court House, Saturday evening, March 29, at 7:30. Mrs. S. J. Mountz, delegate from this Congressional District, will address the meeting as will W. I. Fleming, candidate for County Chairman, and Mrs. Geo. W. Zeigler, candidate for Vice-Chairman. Mrs. Leah Cobb Marion, of Harrisburg, who is president of the League of Women Voters of the state, will also be present.

Purchased Business.

F. W. West, of Marion Centre, Pa., and E. E. Widdowson, of New York city, a graduate of Eckel's college, of Philadelphia, this week purchased the furniture and undertaking business of O. A. Bittle, formerly F. E. Naginey, in Bellefonte. They assume possession at once and will continue the same business, expecting to develop it along modern lines. The men also plan to move their families here in the near future.

Bellefonte High Defeated.

Bellefonte High School was defeated by the Lock Haven High basketball team in a fast game at the armory on Tuesday evening. The score was 21—18. Tomorrow night, both the boys and girls team of the Bellefonte High are scheduled for games at Spring Mills, likely the last games of the season.

REGISTER'S SON INJURED

Sheldon Rossman, 5, Run Down by Automobile.

Sheldon Rossman, five years old, a son of Register and Mrs. Harry A. Rossman, of Bellefonte, was painfully injured on Monday at noon when he stepped in the path of a light Ford delivery truck driven by a Mr. Henry, of Mingoville. It is thought that he will recover in a few days, however, unless complications develop but he has been obliged to remain in bed since the accident.

Register Rossman does not blame Mr. Henry, he said, as it was such an accident as may be termed unavoidable. On company with another little chap, Allen Wolford, the boys were crossing Bishop street, near their homes. Autos were approaching from east and west. The lads, it seems, were watching the car from the west and failed to see Mr. Henry. The Wolford lad was barely missed by the auto and Sheldon Rossman was struck and knocked to the road, fortunately in such a manner that he was just between the wheels and, while the car passed over him, the wheels did not hurt him.

Mr. Henry stopped his car as quickly as possible and a physician was summoned, who found upon examination that the lad was suffering from minor injuries to his head, eye and shoulders and that he was hurt about his stomach, where he was apparently struck by the crank of the car.

Won't Tolerate Mischief.

Malicious mischief and disorderly conduct won't be tolerated in Bellefonte under the regime of Chief-of-Police Harry Dukeman. Early Monday morning, he noticed a young student from a nearby town alight from an auto on Bishop street, near Allegheny. He watched until he saw the student tear down the sign at the Rossman auto accessories store. Then Dukeman started toward him. The young man noticed his approach and started to run but he was overtaken just after getting into his car. It was 2 o'clock but Dukeman aroused Sheriff Taylor and had the student furnish $15 bail for his appearance before Burgess Walker. The student appeared on Tuesday morning paid his fine and costs. He was given to understand by Dukeman that such stunts as he had attempted were taboo.

Status of Titan Plant.

Recent announcement that all stockholders should attend an important meeting of the Titan Metal Company on Thursday, May 22nd, to take such action as deemed necessary and expedient to sell and dispose of all of its properties, rights and franchises and to liquidate and wind up the affairs, viewed with much concern as to the possibility of the plant being closed, is merely a form to be followed in a re-organization schedule planned for some time, according to one of the active directors, who also said that the plant will be continued in operation, quite likely on an even larger scale. As the company employs a number of men at fair wages and has been considered as one of the substantial industries in the community, the director's version of the status of the plant is re-assuring and gratifying.

Golden Eagle Banquet.

One of the most delightful events in the history of Bellefonte Castle, No. 357, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will be the 34th annual banquet, which will be held at the Brockerhoff House on Tuesday evening, April 8th, at 7:30 o'clock. Attorney S. D. Gettig will preside. The speakers will include Gordon A. Williams, grand vice chief, of Tyrone, and possibly W. P. Grander, grand chief, of Royersford, Pa. Music will be furnished by a select orchestra. An evening of rare enjoyment is in store for all who are so fortunate as to be present. The committee in charge is composed of L. H. Wian, M. T. Eisenhauer, David L. Bathurst, M. L. Cherry and C. D. Young.

New Quarantines.

Health conditions seem to be improving in Bellefonte and there will be no serious outbreak in the opinion of Health Officer Glenn if parents are prompt and careful when illness appears in their homes. The only homes now under quarantine are those of Wilbur Saxton, on Burnside street, and for William Harter, a little chap in the borough home, for measles, and Linn Love, of Logan street, for scarlet fever.

Reporter Wanted.

Position now open to young man with High School education, desiring to learn newspaper reporting. Call at "The Republican" office.

MANY FAMILIES PLAN MOVING ON APRIL IST.

New Faces Greet Friends in Various Neighborhoods.

HOUSES IN DEMAND

While many families in Centre County are moving or ready to flit to new homes this week, others are in a quandary, having no place as yet to go. This has been a perplexing situation for several years and, while many homes were built last year, the indications are that more folks than ever will erect homes this coming summer on account of the shortage of houses.

Among the changes in Bellefonte, we note the following:

Linn McGinley, Jr., will move from the Charles Keichline house on High street to the property on North Spring street, recently purchased from the Bradleys. Ray White vacated the Bradley house and moved into the Furst building, in the Christian Science rooms across from the Court House.

John Marks will vacate the Shoemaker property on High street and move into apartments in the Furst building.

George Young vacated apartments in Crider's Exchange and moved into the John Lambert property on Quaker Hill, vacated by Knarrs, who moved to Pleasant Gap.

John Larimer also moved from Quaker Hill to Pleasant Gap, the double dwelling, of which he occupied one side, being purchased last fall by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shirk. Their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson, will move into the Larimer side. The Shirks have decided to remain at the Pruner orphanage indefinitely.

The house on Logan street vacated by the Johnsons, has been leased by Harry Boyer, who has moved from the property recently purchased by Mrs. John Whippo, and will be occupied by the Whippo family.

Clarence Fromm has vacated the Cohen property on East Bishop street, purchased some time ago by Samuel Clevenstine, and moved yesterday to Tyrone, where he is a partner in the Standard Grocery store. Mr. Clevenstine will move to this property from the farm near Zion.

Herbert Auman has rented his home on Penn street and will move into the Bradley homestead property on North Spring street, which he recently purchased.

Mrs. Katie Compani will move from apartments in the Haag House back to her own property, which she leased last spring to the Switzer family, the latter moving into the McSuley property on Logan street with their sister, Miss Martha Switzer. Joe McCulley will move from third floor apartments in the Haag House to the apartments vacated by Mrs. Compani.

Mrs. Mary Robb and daughter Miss Helen vacate the Mrs. Page property on Bishop street to the property farther east on Bishop street, vacated by Telford Fink and family, who recently moved to Tyrone, where Mr. Fink is a partner with his brothers in the hardware business.

Charles W. Hellhecker and wife have purchased from Edward J. Haupt the bungalow along the state road to Milesburg, vacating the house on East Curtin street owned by Mrs. John Snyder, formerly Mrs. Newcomer, who will move here from State College.

S. H. Hoy has purchased the one side of the double house on South Thomas street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hoy, from the Pages and will move from his farm, near town. Stewart Hoy and wife will move into their home on North Thomas street, just completed.

W. F. Conrodie, a conductor on the Lewisburg passenger train, will move here from Sunbury, taking the side of the Parker house on Spring street, vacated by the Bashoars, who will return to Millersburg.

Harry A. Shope moved from the McClure double house on East Bishop street to the house vacated by Mrs. Grace Keefer, the latter going to State College where she is a partner with Gilbert Nolan in the hardware business. Lawrence McClure and family will move into the McClure house from apartments in the James McClure building on the same street.

George Kellerman vacates the Quaker stone house and will move into the Mack Young property on South Allegheny street. Eli Baney and wife vacated the house on Logan street where they have resided for years and will make their home with their daughter, Mrs. Wilbur

HOSPITAL SLOGAN IS "SERVE CENTRE'S SICK"

APPEAL TO CHURCHES

Colonel Henry C. Quigley has cancelled all engagements out of town until the end of the hospital drive. The Kiwanians are broadcasting that the people of Centre County are going to put it over 100 per cent. The slogan for the drive, "Serve Centre's Sick," was the suggestion of Lee Lutz, a pupil in the Fourrh grade, North Ward school, Bellefonte. The award of $10 will be given Master Lutz at the opening dinner of the campaign on Friday evening, April 4th. Then the big guns will sound and the drive will be on. For ten days in every nook and corner of Centre County will be heard the noise of the campaign and most folks will do their share to the best of their ability, for the hospital serves patients all over the county.

Its doors are always open to admitter to those in need. No one who is curable is turned away and the stranger who is stricken while stopping in Centre county receives the same care as one of her own residents.

During the past five years hospital service was given for the following number of patients from the localities named:

Letters are being mailed this week to eighty or more churches in the county, asking the ministers for their co-operation in the coming hospital drive.

Wednesday, March 26th, at 4:00 p. m., the Centre County Medical Association will meet in the interest of the coming campaign to raise $100,000 for the hospital.

An enthusiastic meeting of representative citizens of Milesburg Borough and Boggs Township was held Sunday afternoon in the Methodist church. Colonel Quigley outlined the needs of the hospital and the plan of the campaign. Captain Harry A. Rossman emphasized the need of each division of the organization securing its quota if the full amount of $100,000 is subscribed. After a very thorough discussion of the needs of each division of the organization securing its quota if the full amount of $100,000 is subscribed. After a very thorough discussion of the needs of the hospital, Albert A. Bierly was selected as Lieutenant.

Captain Rossman has appointed Dr. W. J. Kurtz to be in charge of Howard Borough, and O. J. Stover and Mrs. Milton Kunes to be in charge of Liberty Township.

Captain W. J. Emerick, of Division E, has appointed the following lieutenants: George Carpeneto, Oscar Gray, George Hazel, Harry Yeager, Arthur Sloop and John Bullock for Bellefonte Borough; Ray Noll, for Pleasant Gap, and Mrs. Harry Garbrick, for Coleville.

Colonel Quigley is highly elated over the splendid co-operation on the part of the teachers in Centre County in bringing the Slogan contest to the attention of the children.

The contest closed at 4 o'clock Saturday and 956 slogans were received. These came from all parts of the County. Any one of scores of these would have made good slogans for this campaign, but a choice having to be made it finally came down to the one suggested by Lee Lutz.

Stephen C. Pohe, president of the Kiwanis Club of Johnstown, and president of the Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital of that city, has been invited to make the principal address at the opening dinner. Mr. Pohe is vice-president of the Penn Public Service Corporation and one of the most influential men in Johnstown. His leadership was the determining factor in the success of a campaign for $500,000 for the Memorial Hospital and as a result of his work in that campaign he was unanimously elected president of the hospital.

KIWANIS NEWS

Guests and Members Hear Instructive Talk.

Guests at the weekly meeting of the Bellefonte Kiwanis in the Brockerhoff House on Tuesday were J. O. Stutzman, superintendent, and C. J. Krahnke, chaplain, of the Rockview penitentiary; Horace Hartranft, William Bottorf and Charles Casebeer. A very instructive talk on retail merchandising was given by J. W. Griest, general manager of the Retail Merchants Institute of Chicago, Ill. His message was so good, the time so brief, that he was prevailed upon to continue his address at the Court House in the evening.

John Roy reported preparations for the coming hospital campaign as moving along smoothly. He is a seasoned general and Kiwanis is with him.

A handsome Kiwanis button was presented President Ard by the International Headquarters. This button is worn by all presidents and is handed on to each succeeding president.

The next meeting will be at 7 p. m. at the Brockerhoff House on April 1st. It is charter meeting and every Kiwanian should be present. Herbert A. Moore, District Kiwanis Governor of Pennsylvania, will present the charter. Charles E. Taylor, of DuBois, district secretary, will be among those present. The address of welcome will be given by Judge Quigley.

SMALLPOX IN CLEARFIELD

Two Cases In Nearby County Causes State Warning.

A general warning has been sent throughout the state by Dr. J. Moore Campbell, chief of the department of communicable diseases of the state health department at Harrisburg, as the result of two cases of smallpox appearing in Clearfield County during the past week

County medical authorities and employes have been urged to have all new cases vaccinated. Smallpox cases have been reported in the following counties: Braddock, Allegheny, Washington, Delaware and Clearfield. Dr. Campbell said there was no occasion for alarm, but that he was acting to place all industrial centres, where labor is imported from the south, on guard, as much of this class of labor is coming from parts of the country where vaccination is not rigidly enforced.

Crain—Tate.

Wendell Crain, of Port Matilda, and Miss Thelma Tate, of Coleville, were united in marriage on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Tate, by her pastor, the Rev. Wilson P. Ard, of the Lutheran church. The bride is one of our best known young folks and for some time past has been employed in the local offices of the Bellefonte Central Railroad Co. The groom is employed in a responsible position by Swift & Co., Altoona branch, where they will reside. Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Crain departed for Altoona and Pittsburgh on a wedding trip. They have best wishes of "The Republican" and a host of friends.

Krape—Schroat.

Milford S. Krape and Miss Emma M. Schroat, both of Lock Haven, were united in marriage in Bellefonte at the Lutheran parsonage on Sunday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. Wilson P. Ard.

He prepared for college at the Boalsburg Academy and entered Gettysburg college in 1870, graduating four years later. He was a member of the Philomathuean literary society and an orator on many special occasions. He read law at Bellefonte and was admitted to the bar in 1876, since which time he practiced here.

He was always a staunch Republican and was Burgess of Bellefonte during the years 1880 and 1881. He was also an active member of the P. O. S. of A., Bellefonte Camp, keenly interested in the affairs of the order.

INSPECTED TROOPS

Officers Banquet on Chicken at Brockerhoff House.

Federal inspections of local troops of the 52nd Machine Gun squadron were held in Bellefonte on Friday and at Boalsburg on Saturday. The local troops—Troop B, Headquarters troop and the Medical Corps—ranked high. The inspecting officer was Captain Hoger, U. S. army, detached officers' service.

Landsy at the Brockerhoff House on Friday evening, 12 covers being laid.

On Saturday, Colonel Theodore Davis Boal was host to the officers after federal inspection of Troop A, Boalsburg. From Boalsburg, the officers went to Lewistown and on Sunday afternoon Troop C, of that city, passed inspection in good order.

Local officers who went to Lewistown included Capt. Russell T. George, Capt. Herbert C. Miller, 1st. Lieut. Gideon C. Payne; 2nd. Lieut. Herbert M. Beezer and 2nd. Lieut. Ralph T. Smith.

Centre County Track Meet.

Plans arewell under way for the fourth annual Centre County Track and Field Meet, which will be held on New Beaver field, State College, on May 10. Interest and enthusiasm are unusually high for so early in the season. This year's meet is especially important to Bellefonte High School. Another victory by the local boys will bring the big cup of Class A to the local boys for the third time and it will become their permanent possession. They realize, however, that the competition will be unusually strong and have started practice to prepare themselves for a hard fight.

Damaged House in Moving.

Chief-of-Police Harry Dukeman expressed as his opinion after making an examination of the damages at the Montgomery homestead, which had been previously reported as the result of malicious mischief, that the breaking of the balusters and the damages were caused by reckless handling of the furniture by parties engaged in moving household goods from the house.

Awarded $4,500 Damage.

An award of $4,500 damage was made for S. H. Hoy by the board of viewers appointed by Judge Quigley to ascertain damage to his farm in Benner Twp. by the Keystone Power Corporation running their heavy voltage line through it. The viewers were Robert F. Hunter, G. W. Reese, William Brouse, A. L. McGinley and Jacob Marks.

Isle of Solid Iron in Pacific Ocean

Koolan, Off Northwest Australia, Has Great Harbor.

Melbourne.—Far away, off the northwest coast of Australia, 2,000 miles from any city of importance and many hundreds of miles from the nearest white habitation, is a spot destined to play an important part in the future of the British empire, writes a contributor to the Melbourne Argus, describing Koolan island, a veritable lump of solid iron resting on the sea.

This island lies in the Yampi sound and is only thirty or forty miles off the regular sea routes of western Australia—a nugget of black ore, estimated to contain 76,500,000 tons of the metal, probably much more valuable as an actual asset than all the gold that has ever been mined in Australia.

The writer, whose account deals at length with a trip to Koolan island which he had just completed, is not only impressed with the material aspects of this newly discovered additional wonder of the world, but speaks of the beauty of the tropical sea wherein this treasure lies. He speaks of its "untouched loveliness," and says he felt like one of "those early pioneers who, first entering Sydney harbor, had revealed to them one of the most majestic of God's handiworks, untarnished by the suburban builder and the advertising agent."

Three White Men Slain.

"Parts of the island," he continues, "carry a fair amount of medium-sized timber and a number of flowering shrubs somewhat similar to the hibiscus."

He noticed a variety of bird life, but no sign of human occupation, although it has been established that natives do, from time to time, visit the island from the mainland. It is said that some years ago three white men who had gone out prospecting were murdered by the aborigines in this vicinity. When, later, their boat was discovered, it was found to contain a quantity of rich, gold-bearing stone, but it still remains a mystery where they collected it.

Koolan island, which is seven miles long in an eastern and western direction, with a maximum breadth of three miles at its eastern end, is 670 feet high near its center, and rises almost sheer from the sea. It is one of several islands almost parallel to the mainland, forming a magnificent harbor, perhaps ten miles long by a mile wide, with deep water everywhere, sheltered from all prevailing winds. Here in time of war, says our observer, a fleet might find shelter, but preferably it is here that a fine mercantile harbor might be established as part of the development of Australia's great but at present almost empty "Nor'west."

The outcrop of iron ore, which forms the crest of a ridge on the southern side of the island, is in many places 100 feet thick and of apparently all solid metal. A very large part of this ore could be obtained without the expense of removing any "overburden." Our observer says:

Beds Extend Under Sea.

"This is a mining project from which conjecture and uncertainty have been almost entirely eliminated; the very unusual and complete exposure of the ore bodies in the wonderful seacliff sections available make it possible to dispense with a great deal of preliminary work, and attack the lode with such certainty that both quality and quantity can safely be regarded as already proved. One can actually see and handle the ore bodies in the cliff along the whole length, and for a depth of as much as 60 feet."

The estimate of experts—76,500,000 tons—refers only to the ore obtainable above the high-water mark, mostly by open quarrying. Intensive mining might even double the quantity of ore available. Thus Koolan island ranks high among the great iron deposits of the world from the point of view of magnitude. It belongs to the class of bedded haematite deposits of sedimentary origin, which comprise about two-thirds of the total known iron reserves of the world.

The Koolan beds are believed to extend under the sea, and may even cover an area of several hundred square miles; and, as it is the geological nature of this class of deposit to be large in linear dimensions, experts state there is every reason to believe that if mining operations should be begun on Koolan an average grade of 60 to 75 per cent of metallic iron could be depended upon for many years.

"Analyses of four samples taken from Koolan island," concludes the contribution to the Argus, "showed the presence of 94 per cent, 92 per cent, 95 per cent and 97 per cent, respectively, of ferric oxide, while of those two most hurtful ingredients of iron stone, sulphur and phosphorus, there was of the former no trace at all and of the latter .4 per cent, .03 per cent, .03 and .02 per cent, respectively.

"To realize the value of this deposit one should compare the analysis of some well-known haematite iron ores. Lake Superior yields 58.45 per cent of metallic iron; Newfoundland, 51.88 per cent; Cuba, 57.80 per cent; France, 57.28 per cent; England, 48.84 per cent to 62.11 per cent; Spain, 50.84 per cent; China, 60 per cent to 62 per cent; India, 64 per cent to 69 per cent, and Algiers, 43.65 per cent to 57.10 per cent.

"The situation of Koolan island, with deep water to within a few feet of the lode, makes for easy working on a large scale. So favorable is the situation that with very little trouble the ore could be sent direct from an open-cut quarry into the ship's hold without intermediate handling."

British Empire's Fair at Wembly

Visitors to See England's Colonial Policy in Review.

Washington.—For eight months the British empire, counting one-fourth of the people of the world, will be put under the microscope when the British Empire exhibition opens at Wembly, England, in April. More than 30,000,000 people are expected to inspect the world-girdling colonial union transported to England in miniature.

"After walking down a street of Hongkong, China, a sightseer in the London suburb next summer can cross the roadway to visit a native West African village," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters at Washington.

"At the end of the street a duplicate of India's wondrous Taj Mahal will point its minarets into London's fogs, yet from this Mohammedan temple of temples to a Burmese pagoda will be only a few steps. Palm trees of Borneo may throw shadows over a Labrador Eskimo hamlet.

Proves Colony Idea Good.

"Every dominion and the mother country itself is to have a separate building to tell its story. Australia's 3½-acre palace will be surrounded with trees and shrubs of that island-continent's native flora. Canada, South Africa, Rhodesia, India and others small and large, in turn will bring the essence of their plains and hills to Wembly.

"But to the discerning the fruits and products of the dominion will be secondary to the fruits of England's 300-year-old colonial policy in full panorama. The British 'world's fair' will prove that the Stuart king's idea of a colony producing raw materials which the mother country exchanges for manufactured products was successful.

"This is the pageant of human activity the exhibit will present. One by one British colonized states will step forward and say: 'I control the world's supply of this. More than 50 per cent of that comes from my soil.' Malay states will tell the story of rubber and tin; South Africa of diamonds; India of jute, manganese, shellac, spices; Ceylon of tea, sugar and copra; Canada of asbestos, nickle, silver, wheat and lumber; Australia and New Zealand of wool and mutton; South Africa, Australia and Canada of gold—and so the parade will go.

Britain's Greatest Competitor.

"Some major products are conspicuous by their absence. Many of those missing are found in the United States. Another significant fact not apparent from the exposition is that the United States is the greatest competitor of England in the fields of manufactured exports of machinery and cotton cloth. England, even with a world empire, still leans heavily on the United States for raw cotton, tobacco, corn, pork and for much beef, though she imports vast quantities of this staple from South American states and Australia. She requires American petroleum, pig iron, vanadium, lead, zinc, sulphur and phosphate.

"England's colonies have done their part. Has England played its role according to the old 'mercantilist' role, as mill for its dominions? For Ceylon's contribution, she exchanged last year, iron and steel goods from penknives to rock crushers, textiles, tobacco, coal, paper (made from Canadian forests) and soap containing oil from Ceylon's own copra. Nearly 50 per cent of her export products are said to go to empire colonies.

To "Sell" Colonies to Empire.

"Australia's exhibit plans are typical of the efforts of every British colony and dominion to 'sell' itself to the rest of the empire. For eight months the island continent will have a 'Little Australia' at Wembly. Agriculture, forestry, mineral and pastoral products, education, health, town planning and art will each be allotted a special section. A vast refrigerating plant is being installed to show all the frozen products of Australia. In one gallery a huge restaurant will serve only Australian foods. Continuous motion pictures in the basement theater will show the whole range of Australian industry and agriculture. Even Australian sheep will be sheared before spectators' eyes.

"Chicago's epoch-marking world's fair was known as the 'White City' because, unlike most fairs, all the structures were architecturally similar with their designs worked in white plaster. Britain's Wembly exhibition will also be a white city, but will not disappear as did Chicago's palaces, since all major structures are of concrete. The great stadium, largest in the world today, which will be turned over to boy scouts of the empire for the opening days, has been erected especially for the exhibition and will be a permanent convenience to nearby London. It seats 100,000 people and probably will some time see the Olympic games. Although the Empire exhibition will bring the dominions and colonies to England in miniature, it will still be a fairly large miniature since the grounds set aside cover 241 acres."

NERVY GIRL BANDIT LAUGHS AT POLICE

Escapes in an Automobile While Officers Wait.

New York.—Displaying utter contempt for Commissioner Enright's order to a squad of 250 plain-clothes men, issued a short time previously to "get her dead or alive," Brooklyn's famous bobbed-haired girl bandit, who has robbed dozens of stores, again made her appearance in her role as driver of a bandit car, and, with two confederates, escaped with $200 taken from a Thomas Roulston chain store.

Thomas Egan, manager of the store, and Willie Ryan, fifteen years old, his errand boy, were the only ones in the shop when the two men entered. The bandits kept Egan and the boy covered with revolvers while they rifled the cash register.

With a curt command to Egan to "keep your trap shut or get ready to stop a couple of bullets," the two men backed out of the store. Around the corner was an automobile, over the wheel of which bent the bobbed-haired girl bandit.

She had the motor going and as the men stepped into the back of the car she threw in the clutch and the car sped away before any one had noted the number of the license.

The girl's daring has staggered the Brooklyn police. More than 150 extra men in plain clothes, some from the detective school, have been "planted" inside and outside of chain stores to catch the girl, but she always eludes them.

Man 64, Braves Death to Save Dog in River

Detroit, Mich.—An eight-months-old Airedale puppy, frozen to the ice in the Detroit river and howling for help, was rescued from death by a sixty-four-year-old man, who, risking his life on the treacherous broken ice, crawled to the dog, bundled him in a blanket and brought him safely to shore. The story was told by friends of Dr. R. Adlington Newman, to whom "Jerry," the puppy, owes his life.

"I love dogs," Doctor Newman said, "and I couldn't endure the thought of watching this fine puppy die for want of human aid. I tied a rope around my waist and asked a policeman to hold the other end. Then I worked my way over the ice, pushing a skiff ahead of me, and at length reached and rescued the dog."

New York.—While walking with a friend along Eighth avenue Michael Haines, twenty-two years old, complained of a stinging sensation in the roof of his mouth. When his companion, Joseph Clinton, saw blood trickling forth he took Haines to the Harlem hospital.

There it was found that a bullet, fired mysteriously, had lodged in the man's mouth, with a probability, physicians said, of fatal results. Both men denied having heard a shot and asserted that Haines had no enemy who might be suspected.

Places Animals on Much Higher Plane Than Men

Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological park sets down two axioms in his book on "The Minds and Manners of Wild Animals." The first is this: "If every man devoted to his affairs, and to the affairs of his city and state, the same industry that every warm-blooded wild animal devotes to his affairs, the people of this world would abound in good health, prosperity, peace and happiness."

And the second is: "Many men are both morally and intellectually lower than man quadrupeds, and are in my opinion as destitute of that indefinable attribute called soul as all the lower animals commonly are supposed to be."

On a chart Doctor Hornaday shows the relative intelligence of wild animals as he has found it in his long experience with them. The chimpanzee heads the list with a score of 925. This includes all the qualities and attributes that might be grouped as temperament and intelligence. The lion, noblest of the cat family, scores 725, the tiger 575.—New York Times.

Must Be Understood by All

A Chinaman was worried by a vicious-looking dog who barked at him in an angry manner.

"Don't be afraid of him," said a friend. "You know the proverb, 'A barking dog never bites.'"

"Yes," said the Chinaman, "you know the proverb. I know the proverb, but does the dog know the proverb?"

Why Pay the Penalty of Lying Awake?

MANY people spend hours at night, restlessly tossing from side to side, waiting for sleep. All because they drink coffee with their evening meal.

If the caffeine in coffee irritates your nervous system and keeps you awake when you should be asleep, recuperating your energies, why not stop coffee and drink Postum?

Postum is a pure cereal beverage, absolutely free from caffeine or anything that can disturb health and comfort. Many prefer Postum for its delightful aroma and flavor.

If you want to know the truth, change to Postum for a month or so, and see how much better you will sleep and feel.

TEN MONTHS OF SCHOOL.

A proposal that the present nine months' school term be increased to ten months is developing considerable discussion in various parts of the State. Sooner or later the matter will be up for consideration in Centre County. Parents should give the proposal earnest thought before it is actually upon them for acceptance or rejection.

For some years past the need for a ten months school term in the larger cities, Philadelphia in particular, has become so pronounced that it can no longer be avoided. The schools in the cities are over-crowded. Even under existing conditions it is possible to handle the situation only by giving school children a part of the day. By extending the school term another month it is calculated that each child will benefit.

The need for a ten months term, as pointed out, originated in the cities. We observe at Harrisburg a disposition to apply the idea to the whole State. In fact, there are some at Harrisburg who advocate, utilizing the public schools twelve months each year.

This drift toward a continuous school term, allowing no vacation period for the children, brings up a very serious question. Would not the advantage gained in education be more than off-set by a possible undermining of the health of the children? Frankly, we fear that it would. We are firmly of the belief that the children should continue to have the pleasures and advantages generally of the out-door life of the summer months. Nor do we believe that their education will suffer in the slightest degree because of the three months' absence from the school room. The health of the child should come first. Without health, the child's education means nothing. Here and there may be found children whose health might not be impaired by even a twelve month school term, but we feel that the opposite would be the case for the greater number. It is an established principle that any successful system must be framed to suit the needs of the greater number.

Pennsylvania has in recent years injected greater energy in developing our public school system and thereby raising standards. This is to be commended highly. But there is always danger of such movements being carried to extremes. It is to be hoped that good sense and human interest in the health of our children will weigh heavily in the making of plans for the length of the compulsory school term. Williamsport is now giving the ten months term idea the intense consideration it should receive here and everywhere else throughout the State. The Valiamont School section there has flatly rejected it. Physicians and parent associations do not view the matter with favor. Both seem to think it would at least endanger the health of the younger generation. We are strongly inclined to agree with them. We repeat, the matter is one of such importance as to command the immediate attention and best thought of all parents in Centre County.

ALDERMAN STUMPED

Peculiar Dog Case Brings Legal Complications.

An alien, unnaturalized and married to an American girl, was arrested in Altoona the other day on the charge of owning and harboring a dog contrary to law and arraigned before Alderman Charles M. Kephart, of that city. The hearing resulted in complications that stumped the alderman and he delayed decision in the affair until he could look into it further.

Information against the foreigner was made by state game wardens. The defendant, at the hearing, stated he did not own the dog and was not violating the law, the animal being a pet of his wife, who was an American girl.

The alderman will ask legal advice as to whether the wife, although an American before her marriage, might have lost her citizenship when she married an unnaturalized alien. Another pertinent question that enters into the case is whether the alien, as head of the house, while not actually the owner of the dog, may not be guilty of harboring the animal.

VIOLATE DOG LAW

Owners Paid Fines for Not Having 1924 Licenses.

State officers were in Bellefonte and vicinity recently and obtained evidence against a number of persons who had failed to secure dog licenses for 1924 as required by law. The owners were arrested and appeared before Kline Woodring, a local justice of the peace, who imposed minimum fines of $5 each and costs, the total amounting to $8 in each instance.

The state officers have been after dog owners in nearby counties who have failed to comply with the law and are expected to return to Centre County again in the near future. It might be well for every owner of a dog to comply with the law and secure proper license for 1924 at the office of County Treasurer J. O. Heverly.

World's Oldest Horse.

Viewing the approach of spring with apparent nonchalance, Clover, reputed to be the oldest living horse in the world, is nearing his fifty-first birthday on the farm of a clergyman at Catawissa. Clover still boasts a full mane and all his teeth. His body is without a blemish. At the time of his twentieth birthday, he pulled a buggy with two men over an ordinary dirt road for two miles in the time of 4:25. A standing offer of $1,000 for his hide when he dies is said to exist. Among Clover's many benefactors is Mrs. Warren G. Harding, widow of the late president, who donated $100 for the care and comfort of the equine world.

Caught Second Man Peeping

A young man who gave his name as Patrick Murphy, of Chester County, was arrested last Friday evening in State College by Robert Mingle, police officer. He was charged with peeping into windows at the Woman's Cottage, of the Pennsylvania State College, and given a hearing before Squire Mason, of that place, who sentenced him to serve five days in the Centre County jail. This was the second man caught peeping at the woman's dormitory by Officer Mingle, who keeps an eagle eye on law and order in State College.

OVER THE COUNTY

The plot of ground between Lamb St. and the silk mill has been purchased from Ulsh & Bashoar by the Bellefonte Hardware Co. They have developed a splendid business and will erect a large warehouse building on the plot.

The body of a doe deer, found along the Lewisburg branch of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks near Old Fort cut, one day last week, bore indications that it had run ahead of the train and was sideswiped and fatally injured, circled about in the snow a short time and, finally weakened from loss of blood, lay down and died.

Miss Lulu Zerby, of Penn Hall, was accidentally shot in her left shoulder when her father was examining a .22 calibre rifle in the kitchen at their home on March 15. Mr. Zerby had recently sent the rifle away to be repaired. It had just been returned to him and he was working the automatic action and pulling the trigger each time without first making sure the rifle was not loaded. The cartridge had the appearance of having been lodged in the cartridge chamber for some time. The bullet struck high in the young woman's left shoulder and the wound is not regarded as serious.

The Bellefonte firemen, ever anxious to be of service even in out-of town calls, were discouraged considerably on last Thursday evening when somebody, apparently excited, sent in an alarm for fire at Tangletown, the firemen making a hurried run to find they had been summoned for only a spectacular burning of brush and rubbish. Such incidents have a tendency to make the firemen think twice before responding and are to be deplored. Sending in a fire alarm is a serious proposition that should be done only where warranted and then promptly and with due care as to instructions.

That a sale of personal goods can be held in the morning and be profitable was proven in Millheim when a large crowd of good bidders attended the sale of personal effects of the late Dr. M. P. Fiedler of that place.

McHose & Albright, who recently started an auto body building factory in Millheim, have bright prospects for a busy season. They are now making a number of ton and ton and a half bodies for Ford and Chevrolet chasses.

W. Frank Bradford, agent at the Pennsy station in Centre Hall, recently saw a Ford coupe that was being driven rapidly toward the crossing as a passenger train was speeding along from the east. Mr. Bradford likely saved the life of the driver by rushing in front of him, frantically waving his arms, the driver stopping his car within a few feet of the rails.

Train service on the Bald Eagle valley was delayed about fifteen minutes on last Friday morning but it was by a most unusual and interesting wreck. A freight train composed of many cars loaded with coal was passing over the Tyrone Division tracks, near Bald Eagle station. The train was made up of all-steel cars with one wooden car about the centre. The momentum of the rear cars became so great that the wooden car, caught between the two sections of steel cars, was "pinched," being crushed into stove wood and its load scattered. By the time the train was stopped another car had also been derailed. A wrecking crew and train from Tyrone yards was promptly at the scene, pulled the portion of the steel cars onto a siding and then the men, after removing the greater part of the wreckage over the embankment with the big steam derrick, finished the task with shovels and had the tracks cleared in the remarkable short period of 15 minutes.

DR. J. R. G. ALLISON DEAD

Dr. John Ray Geddis Allison, one of the prominent citizens of Penn's valley and widely known throughout the county, died very unexpectedly on last Friday morning at his home in Millheim. He became ill on Monday from acute indigestion and seemed to become weaker, but his illness was not considered serious until Friday morning, when he became so weak that his wife was alarmed and hastily summoned a physician. When he arrived, however, Dr. Allison had expired, the attending physician stating death was due to heart failure as a result of an attack of indigestion.

Born in Mill Hall on April 2, 1856, he was a son of Archibald and Jane Allison, pioneer settlers in Nittany valley and of the same Allison family as were pioneer settlers in Penn's valley. He graduated from the Kishacoquillas Seminary in Lewistown and later from the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. After practicing for some years in Northumberland and Bradford counties, he located in Penn's valley and for the past score or more of years he was identified with the interests of that section, not only as a practicing physician bat active in civic affairs. A number of years ago he served as school director in Millheim and at the time of his death he was an overseer of the poor. He was an enthusiastic Mason and was past master of Centre Hall lodge. He purchased the National Hotel property in Millheim about eight years ago and conducted same, along with his other interests, until about one year ago, when he sold it and purchased the property home where he had since resided.

He was married to Anna Runkle, who survives with one son, Gross Allison, a civil engineer located in New Castle, Ky.; two brothers: Merrill, of Chicago, Ill.; Harry, of Spring Mills, and two sisters: Mrs. Charles Long and Mrs. H. S. Braucht, of Spring Mills. Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by Rev. J. Max Kirkpatrick, pastor of the Prerbyterian church, Centre Hall charge, of which Dr. Allison was a member, and Rev. C. B. Snyder, pastor of the Evangelical church, Millheim charge. It was a Masonic funeral service. Burial was made in Centre Hall cemetery.

Miss Mary B. Struble Dead.

Miss Mary Belle Struble died suddenly at the home of her cousin, Miss Olive Mitchell, on South Spring street, Bellefonte, on Friday afternoon from an attack of heart trouble. The deceased was a daughter of the late Conrad H. and Sarah Mitchell Struble, both deceased, and was born near State College. She was about 57 years old and was a nurse of exceptional executive ability. For many years she was superintendent of nurses in the George Washington University hospital in Washington, D. C., subsequently holding a similar position in a large hospital in Philadelphia and, during the two years preceding her illness, was in charge of the work for disabled soldiers of five counties in the northwest corner of the state, with headquarters in Erie. While engaged in this work, she suffered a general collapse last May and came home, entering the Bellefonte hospital for treatment. She was in the hospital here for two weeks and then went to the home of Miss Mitchell where she had since resided. She was a devoted member of the Episcopal church and was teacher of a class of girls in the Sunday school, in which she was much interested. She had been over town on Thursday afternoon but on Friday suffered a severe attack of heart trouble and her attending physician was summoned. He was unable to aid her, however, and in about two hours she passed away. She was a member of the Bellefonte chapter Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Pennsylvania State College Alumni Association. Two half-brothers, Andrew and Clayton, of State College, survive. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Mitchell home by her pastor, Rev. M. DePui Maynard. The funeral cortege proceeded to Pine Grove Mills, where burial was made in the Struble family plot in the cemetery.

William J. Fleck Killed.

William J. Fleck, of near Philipsburg, was found dead in his coal mine near Blue Ball on Friday afternoon. Mr. Fleck usually came home from his mine at about 5:30 o'clock, for supper. When he was not at home by 6:30, his son Dewey went to the mine and was shocked to find his father's body, partially covered by a fall of rock. A physician said he had been dead for several hours when found. Deceased was a native of Mifflin County and was 51 years old. He located in the Philipsburg region when 23 years old and had since remained in that section. Most of his life was spent in working about brick plants and mines. He leaves his widow, two sons five daughters, three brothers and four sisters.

Mrs. Joseph Moran Dead.

Mrs. Sarah Moran, widow of Joseph Moran and a native of Gregg Township, died at her home near Lock Haven on Wednesday morning, March 19, from infirmities. She was 78 years old. Interment was made in Dunnstown cemetery.

MAILMEN WANT INCREASE

Fight for Fair Pay for Trusted Employes.

There's a fight on in Washington for fair pay for the employes of the government postal service. Employes in the postoffices in Centre County are as much interested as anyone. They know that an increase in pay is coming to them.

"They're more than entitled to it," Postmaster General Harry New admitted, in effect, "but the postal department is losing money now, and all departments are trying to cut down, so what can we do?"

But the question didn't prove as easy to shelve as that.

"Something must be done," insisted the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, unexpectedly taking a hand. Special senate and house sub committees are conducting a hearing in Washington relative to the joint bills which Senator Edge of New Jersey and Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania are urging, with a view to giving the carriers and their fellow-workers a living wage.

"The service," pointed out the Chamber of Commerce, "is in danger of suffering seriously, due to the wide disparity between the salaries paid to the postal employes and the wages paid in private industries."

It is, indeed, agree the higher officials of the department.

The postal workers are a rarely loyal class. They concede that they mustn't use and they won't use labor's one weapon—the strike—no matter how urgent their need.

Even as individuals they are unwilling to quit, not only from genuine love of the service with which they are identified, but, and especially just now, when it's admittedly working under difficulties from lack of adequate funds, because they feel it wouldn't be fair to desert it in an emergency.

However, postal employes do wear out, and when this happens it's hard to find good men to fill vacancies—the pay's too low.

Mrs. Clair Lewis Dead.

Mrs. Myrtle Irene Lewis, wife of Clair Lewis and a native of Bald Eagle valley, died on Sunday evening at her home in Tyrone from lobar pneumonia. Deceased was born Port Matilda, a daughter of W. J. and Mrs. Rachel J. Wiser, on Nov. 17, 1886. She and Mr. Lewis were united in marriage on January 10, 1912 since when she resided in Tyrone. She was a member of the Baptist church, a devoted wife and good mother. Surviving are her husband and four children: Charles, Carl, Rachel and Virgil, all at home; her father and the following brothers and sisters: G. C., T. C., G. H. and Mrs. Lena Hirsh, of Trafford City; Mrs. Lydia Sass and Mrs. Bella Lohr, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Pearl E. Harris, Port Matilda, and three half brothers: W. E. and Clair Wiser and W. T. Patton, all of Port Matilda. Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon and burial made in the Presbyterian cemetery at Port Matilda.

D. O. Downing Dead.

Delbert Orsemus Downing, a native of Centre Line, in Half Moon valley, died at his home in Altoona on last Thursday evening. Deceased was a son of Robert W. and Lavina B. Downing. He was born June 18, 1872, and on August 16, 1897, was united in marriage to Miss Linnie R. Hoover, of Bellefonte. The family moved to Altoona in 1918 and Mr. Downing had been employed at the Mercy hospital, in that city, since, then. He is survived by his mother, a resident of Altoona; his widow and six children; two sisters and one brother, all of Altoona and nearby. Burial was made in Grandview cemetery in Tyrone on Monday afternoon.

Miss Maggie Kane Dead.

Mrs. Maggie Kane, for many years a resident of Bellefonte where she was well and favorably known, died on Tuesday morning at 6:40 o'clock at the home of her niece, Mrs. John Brown, in Oil City. The aged woman had resided with Mrs. Brown and moved with the family when they went from here to Oil City about 8 years ago. Before Christmas, she fell and suffered a fracture of her hip. Being about 82 years old, the injury never healed and she gradually became weaker until the end. She is survived by one brother, Daniel Kane, whose residence was not learned. Interment was made at Oil City.

H. S. Eckert Dead.

Hugh S. Eckert, a native of Centre County, died on Tuesday at his home in Curwensville. He was 72 years old. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Emma Baird, of Snow Shoe, three sons, Charles, John and Robert, of Curwensville, and one sister, Mrs. Bernard Caldwell, of Lumber City.

Howard

On Wednesday evening March 19th, about 50 members of the Evangelical church, of Howard, gave their pastor Rev. F. F. Mayer, a nice reception on his return from Conference for another year. The evening was very pleasantly spent with music, luncheon and a talk by the pastor. When they had all returned to their respective homes, there was an abundance of provision in the parsonage.

W. E. Confer, the rural mail carrier of route No. 1, has been housed up the past week, being threatened with pneumonia. He is very much improved at this writing.

The public schools in the townships are nearing a close. Exercises for the last day are being planned for and students who have passed the common school diploma examinations are making their plans to attend school somewhere this summer preparing for teaching or to enter some school of preparation.

Farmers in this section are very busy these days getting ready for the spring work.

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Price were given a delightful reception on Tuesday evening, March 25th, by the members of the congregation. Mr. Price has been reappointed by Conference to the pastorate of the Howard Methodist church.

The dirt roads in the country are very much improved, much to the delight of those intending to move.

On Thursday night, March 20th, the degree team of the P. O. of A. Camp, No. 155, Howard, went to Orviston to help initiate a number of new members. Those composing the team were as follows:

Asst. Pres. - Miss Idella Williams
Conductor - Mrs. Verna Leathers
Asst. Conductor - Mrs. Lydia Pletcher
Color bearers, Miss Mable Daughenbaugh, Mrs. May Thompson, Mrs. Nora Tice. Refreshments were served and all report having a very delightful evening.

Public Sale

On Tuesday, April 1st, beginning at 10 o'clock A. M., Theodore Davis Boal and George B. Thompson will hold a Clean-up Sale of all stock and equipment, etc., at the LaGarde Dairy Farms, formerly known as the Pond Bank Farm, 3 miles north-west of State College and 1½ miles east of Waddle, including 34 Head of Guernsey Cattle, 5 head of horses, hogs, Fordson with plows, ensilage, cutter, De Laval Separator, chop mill, all kinds of implements, etc. etc.

"Laughland," the home talent minstrel given under auspices of the auxiliary of the Presbyterian church of Snow Shoe and the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. church, was presented to a full house on Tuesday evening, March 18, and in spite of a small amount of adverse criticism (which was to be expected), the majority of the audience pronounced the program a success and well worth the price of admittance. The receipts amounted to over $100, and the director, as well as the members of the cast, wish to thank the good friends who so generously contributed their support and co-operation in making the entertainment a success. The program was as follows:

Act 1—Mrs. Black's Pink Tea.

Act 3—Who's Crazy Now?

Misses Marie Chambers, Margaret Uzzle and Jane Harris, students at Penn Hall, Chambersburg, are home to spend their spring vacation, as is also, Miss Marion Harm, a student of Highland Hall, Hollidaysburg.

"A Little Clodhopper" is the title of a home talent play to be presented in the Lyric theatre in Snow Shoe on April 4th, under the auspices of the graduating class of '24. This play, which is under the supervision of Prof. Ross, promises to be a very pleasing entertainment. We hope the public will respond with a full house and hearty appreciation of the efforts of this class, as the cause combined with the extra labor and expense merits much praise as well as a generous loosening of the purse strings.

Mr. J. Hockenberry, aged 98 years and the oldest resident of Snow Shoe Township, who has been in failing health for some years, is now bedfast and his friends entertain no hope of him ever being able to be about again.

Rev. John Stevens, who has served on the M. E. charge of Snow Shoe for the past 3 years, was removed by conference rulings to a pastorate in Danville. Rev. Stevens' family made many warm friends in Snow Shoe who will be sorry for the change. Nevertheless, a warm welcome awaits Rev. Berkheimer, the new pastor, and it is to be hoped his ministrations will be as conducive to the good of Snow Shoe as was his predecessor's work.

STATE COLLEGE VICTORY

Students Celebrate as Champions of Boxing and Wrestling.

There was a big celebration held at State College over Sunday and especially on Monday as a result of Penn State wrestlers and boxers winning in the inter-collegiate matches on Saturday. After proper measures had been taken, Monday was authorized as a holiday for celebrating the victories.

The boxing match was held at State College and the Penn State team won with 18 points to their credit. Navy was second. Boxers from University of Pennsylvania and Syracuse also were entered in the matches.

The wrestling tournament was held in New Haven, Conn. Penn State easily placed first with 22 points and other entries followed in order as follows: Cornell, Yale, Lehigh, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania and Columbia.

The Penn State wrestlers and boxers showed remarkable form and ability. They were simply invincible. The boxing tournament was the first inter-collegiate meet arranged in the east. It was so successful, however, that plans are already afoot for another next year to be much bigger and more elaborate in every way.

To Debate on World Court.

An East-West Intersectional Debate between the Pennsylvania State College and The Intermountain Union College, of Helena, Montana, will be held in the Court House here, tonight at 8 o'clock. John Blanchard will preside. The subject under discussion, whether or not the United States should enter the World Court, is probably the livest international question which the United States faces today. The debate, participated in by highly trained and carefully picked college men who have spent months in investigating the subject, affords to the people of Bellefonte and vicinity a rare opportunity to secure for themselves reliable information on both sides of the case. The western visitors are taking a 5000 mile tour meeting eighteen different colleges and universities. To help raise the guarantee advanced by the Penn State Debating Council an admission fee of 25 and 50 cents will be charged. Tickets at Mott's Drug Store any time during the day and at the door shortly before the debate.

The Bellefonte girls were there with the speed that has kept them in the winning class through the entire season. Credit must be given the Altoona girls, too, for being game and displaying spirit from start to finish. They tried hard to stop the locals, but simply could not.

The business of the world is done on credit.

Credit is based on faith—on the belief that promises will be kept.

Hence the most important thing a business man can have is Character.

The first question asked about him is,—what is his reputation for honesty, for reliability.

The lack of these qualities is not long concealed.

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, West Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I was born in Marion County and still live in it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true." —Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. Air Records for Army Made With Old Planes

In the last year the army air service set 11 world records, most of them with obsolescent craft brought up to date. Records for 500, 1,000, 1,500, 2,000, 2,500, 3,000, 3,500, 4,000, 5,000 and 5,300 kilometers were made at Dayton, O., and San Diego, Cal., and were made possible, for the longer distances, through refueling in full flight, a gas tank plane, the new supply being fed through a hose to the lower ship. A world's duration record of 36 hours, 4 minutes and 31 seconds was made over Dayton on April 16-17, by Lieuts. Oakley Kelly and J. A. Macready, which was later surpassed on August 27-28 by Lieuts. L. H. Smith and J. P. Richter at San Diego, with a record of 37 hours 15 minutes 43.8 seconds. This was made in an army observation plane, seven years old in design, refueling in flight.—United States Army Recruiting News.

Aliens Victims of Confidence Men

Lots Under Water and Railroads Among Things "Sold" to Immigrants.

New York.—Flagrant swindles, ranging from the sale of lots under water for $49.50 each to the sale of a half-interest in the Pennsylvania railroad for $500, have cost immigrants to this country many millions of dollars annually, Deputy Assistant District Attorney James J. Wilson told the legislative committee on exploitation of immigrants recently at a hearing at city hall.

Mr. Wilson said that more than $12,000,000 had been obtained from immigrants by the under-water lot swindle. Among the other frauds of which new arrivals were victims, he said, was the sale of bogus concessions under the Brooklyn bridge, which were guaranteed to be granted by the mayor personally. Mr. Wilson said he had specialized on cases of exploitation of immigrants for the last two years.

High Prices for Poor Lots.

"About two years ago," Mr. Wilson said, "the district attorney's office was informed of a large practice going on among the foreign-speaking population of the city in reference to real estate transactions. The real estate shark knew the appeal which the innate love of a home must have to a foreigner, and preyed upon it. Large tracts of land in the metropolitan area within a 50-mile radius of New York were sold as lots. In some cases lots purported to be worth $200 or more were disposed of at from $37 to $49.50, the latter price being just 50 cents shy of the grand larceny limit. When the immigrant went to build a house he found usually that the lot was heavily encumbered not only by a mortgage which was part of a blanket, but by liens in the form of a judgment against the real estate corporation owning the lots. In other cases where immigrants had purchased lots on the installment plan, paying from $500 to $700, the lots were not worth $10."

One of the most common practices to induce immigrants to buy lots, Mr. Wilson said, was through agents speaking their own language. Prospective purchasers were told of a wonderful opportunity to purchase land at a low price. If interested, arrangements were made to have three or four meet the salesman somewhere on Sunday morning. They were taken to Jersey or Long Island, where an automobile was waiting. By fast driving, 25 or 30 miles would be covered within a comparatively short time. The immigrant, thinking that he was only a few miles from the city, was readily induced to buy worthless land at exorbitant prices.

Suggests a Remedy.

Asked by Senator Salvatore A. Cotillo, the chairman, if he had any remedy to suggest for the present situation, Mr. Wilson said that he would make it compulsory for every person selling real estate on the installment plan to file an installment contract in the office of the register for the protection of the buyer. "I would make it compulsory by law that the contract be filed within two or three days after the contract is executed," he said.

He told also of two Italian bootblacks who had made a little money out of their stand on West Thirty-sixth street and were induced to buy a half interest in the Pennsylvania railroad for $500. They were taken through the concourse of the Pennsylvania station, he said, where a row of stores was pointed out to them. They were told that they would share also in the profits accruing from these stores.

Mr. Wilson said that when the salesman later was brought to his office, he lenied that he had sold a half interest n the Pennsylvania railroad to the bootblacks. The salesman, Mr. Wilson said, explained that the money was toward a gigantic industrial venture which he was about to launch and in which he planned to buy up whole blocks around the station. This, Mr. Wilson pointed out, would include the purchase of the Pennsylvania hotel and other property running up probably into the billions.

Herman G. Robbins, attorney for the creditors of the American and Foreign Securities corporation, formerly located at 16-18 Exchange place, told of numerous bond frauds which have been practiced on foreigners, especially those unable to speak English. He said that he had filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District court for the American and Foreign Securities corporation upon the application of one Joseph P. McDonald, and charged that the corporation had been selling exchange lire on the installment plan like furniture and that the drop in the market had caused them to go bankrupt.

Woman Victim of "Con Man."

Giuseppi Gudi, operating a brokerage house and steamship agency at 66 Baxter street, was called upon to explain why various sums of money paid over to him to be transmitted to Italy were delayed in many cases from a year to 15 months. His explanation was: "If it is convenient I send it at once. If not, I wait until it is convenient." Gudi admitted that only recently, after a conference with Senator Cotillo, had he forwarded the money.

Katrini Lipnicki of 282 South Second street, Brooklyn, told the committee how she had paid $100 to have her daughter admitted to the United States last A gust. She said that when her daughter was held at Ellis Island for deportation, she had been told by a man that he would "fix things" for $25 if she would accompany him to the battery. She paid the money. Arrived at the battery, however, she was informed that her daughter could only be admitted through a special order to pay $75 more, covering expenses from Washington.

A few days later, she said, she was informed by the "fixer" that he had been to Washington, but that only three people remained on duty there, all the others being on a vacation at the time. Under the circumstances, he explained, nothing could be done.

Many Lose Savings.

A fraud practiced in 1912 by a small Italian who undertook to compete with the express and steamship agencies in transmitting money to Italy, was revealed by Senator Cotillo. "Some years ago," he said, "A. Bolognesi, engaged in the transmission of money orders abroad. He appointed a number of agents and subagents without any bond or security and distributed his draft blanks to grocers, shoemakers, etc. The American Express company and the steamship companies nearly lost all their business, and through the state industrial bureau forced Bolognesi to qualify as an express company or go out of business. Bolognesi acquired a half-mile tract of land, bought a railroad car and an engine and operated the same at leisure. In this way he qualified as an express company. The final result was that he failed and thousands of people lost their savings."

Miss Marion K. Clark, chief of the alien division of the state labor department, told the committee that aliens were living in labor camps in this state under conditions that amounted practically to peonage. These immigrants, she said, were without legal protection as a result of the abolition in 1921 of the state bureau of immigration. Since 1911, she said 24,844 complaints were disposed of and 51,140 cases investigated and $265,000 collected from persons who had exploited immigrants.

"Thirty-two per cent of the citizens of this state are aliens," said Miss Clark, "who we hope will evolve into American citizens and shed their blood for their country, if need be, and they are without statutory protection. We have records of aliens being shipped to camps from which they have to walk 100 miles to get back to civilization."

"Pep" Is Name of New Town in West Texas

Littlefield, Tex.—Pep is the name of the newest town to spring up in west Texas. It is 16 miles southwest of here, near the northwest corner of Hockley county. A few weeks ago a pasture, today, a buzzing, growing community—that's Pep. The enterprise of its citizens occasions the belief that the town is appropriately named.

The new town covers a part of the famous Littlefield ranch now being subdivided with numerous other west Texas ranches into small farm plots. So suddenly did the town come into being that when County Judge Evans was asked for free text books to supply the school, already under construction, he did not know there was such a town, and drove over to see it.

SISTER BARBARA NEEDED TAMING

By MOLLIE MATHER

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

DICK and the youngest professor of Larsmuth college were very good friends.

"You see," Dick explained, as the two walked the campus together, "I have to look after my sister Barbara; that was mother's last wish, as she died. Bab was full of unexpected whims as a child. Good as gold, you understand, but irresponsible and happy-go-lucky. Then, too, she has no consideration. The other night Mrs. Ryan, who helps with the housekeeping in the cottage we have rented here, and myself spent several anxious hours seeking for Bab. Called various places on the phone where she might be visiting, and at last, when I agreed to sit up to await her coming, Bab came swinging along in the moonlight, to explain that she had been alone in her favorite nook in the woods listening to the night sounds.

"I purposely brought Bab to the village when I came to resume my studies, that I might watch over her and try to impress upon her the need of responsibility. But I am a poor teacher, judging by the progress I make in Bab's case.

Dick shifted uneasily—a picture had come to him of his sister, her blue eyes in their sheer happiness, seeming to reprove his given confidence.

"There have been two nice fellows who were eager to marry Bab and she would only laugh good naturedly at their lovemaking. Going her way, satisfied in her carefree existence."

The firm lips of Bruce Allan parted in a smile of amusement. "Why, what your sister needs, from your heartfelt description, is mere taming. Been given her way too long, by adoring friends."

Down the shining roadway came a slight graceful figure. Barbara was out for a noonday walk. She smiled a friendly smile including the, to her, unknown professor. "How do you do?" greeted Bab. "I won't be home to lunch with you Dickie—off to the woods to hunt red berries for the fireplace mantle."

Richard stiffly recalled the conventions by presenting the professor. Bab nodded to Bruce Allan. "Good morning, both of you," she dismissed them, and was on her way.

As Dick unhappily went his way the professor decided grimly to teach the offending young woman a lesson. He followed therefore to the woodland spot, where Bab sat enjoyably listening to the chirp of snowbirds. Bruce Allan took his place beside her, and deliberately spoke reproof of lack of proper respect for convention.

Bab's disarming smile caused his strange embarrassment.

"What a pity," she remarked, "that you are not my instructor, Mr. Allan, as well as Dick's, that you might have the right to lecture me."

But Bruce persevered, and in his persistent effort to improve the morals and manners of Dick's sister, entered not one thought of ensuing trial to himself. The trial came with his undoubted love for the willful Bab. It was amazing, he reflected with resignation far from depressing, that he, heretofore indifferent to women, should succumb to one so far from the womanly ideal of humility. He determined to firmly follow his method of taming the merry little shrew into surrender.

Dick watched without hope, the experiment. Then Bab fell ill, very ill. Pneumonia, the physician pronounced it. Bruce Allan haunted the doorway of the sick room—if she should go from him, without knowing how he had loved her. Herein was his agony of regret. She lay so silent—the small broken thing upon her high pillows. Softly Bruce tip-toed into the room—kissed the white still face—slipped out to go away, in anxiety.

As soon as Bab was able to be lifted from her bed, the physician himself took her in his warm car to a mountain resort where the altitude was healing to hurt lungs. The professor learned only after she was gone. He traveled in this the early springtime to the far hills to see the face he loved. Spoke gently, that love to the smiling Bab who greeted him. Ruefully she shook her head—"I am still," she told him, with a swift laugh—"untamed."

He went back to his college saddened; for beneath Bab's laughter, he had fancied finality. But when summer vacation came Bruce Allan knew that he must go again to the far mountain to once more try his fate. It happened that it was the dean who drove him there. The dean's family occupied a summer lodge near Barbara's boarding place. The two had become friends. And as the two men, following Mrs. Ryan's direction, sought Bab in the orchard, came suddenly from an apple tree a missile which brushed harshly the professor's elbow. The dean picked up the apple where it fell and Bab smiled at them from her perch in the apple tree. It was the dean who reached up to help her. And when Bab and Bruce Allan stood alone he leaned toward her—"Again, Bab," he said, "I tell you my love."

"I knew of it long ago," she answered him serenely, "when you kissed me—that time I was ill. I was then hardly able to appreciate the gift. Perhaps now—" suggested Bab wickedly.

After a time the professor sighed, though his face was radiant. "Tamed!" he muttered.

The American Legion

"MYSTERY MAN" IS IDENTIFIED

Oklahoma's "mystery man," who for four years baffled efforts of American Legion and Red Cross officials to establish his identity, has been recognized as Arthur Littleswift Frazier of Winner, S. D. Incidentally by his identification, he may receive $2,000 in back pay due him from the government, and a Legion post named in his honor will have to seek another hero to commemorate.

Frazier, or Green, as he was known then, was discovered in the woods near Ponca City, Okla., existing on berries and roots, living in a tepee constructed principally of remnants of an American flag. He was taken in charge by the authorities and on recommendation of the American Legion was sent to a government hospital, as he had established the fact that he was a World war veteran.

Then began a long quest for clues to his identity. Every relief agency and government bureau exhausted itself in efforts to learn who the man was, but to no avail. He was positively "identified" on several occasions by various persons only to show no signs of recognition when put to test.

In the meantime, back in the South Dakota town where he had lived, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frazier received official notice from the government that their son had been killed in action in the Argonne late in October, 1918. He was mourned as dead, and in order to pay him full respect, a post of the Legion was named in his honor.

By chance a Legionnaire residing in Winner saw a photograph of the Oklahoma "mystery man," as he was known, because he had no recollection of his past, and the parents went to Muskogee to identify the man. There, he was claimed as their son, and they returned to the Dakota home.

If this man was Frazier, then he was entitled to back pay because he had never been discharged from the service. Compensation checks sent him were fraudulently cashed in Chicago at one time.

Because Frazier is suffering not only from his mental disability but tuberculosis hastened by the poisonous gases and exposure, his Legion friends appealed to the Veterans' bureau for aid. He was sent to Minneapolis, where he was met by two comrades, and he recognized both of them immediately as "buddies" in his overseas outfit. Both said the man had served in the same Minnesota guard unit with which they served in France, and testified to their belief that he was Frazier. The man has no recollection of any of his previous life, save a dog, who had been his companion in earlier days, and who apparently recognized him the moment he set foot in the Frazier home.

Form Club to Save for Trip to French Capital

Another savings club, deposits of which are destined to be used for a trip to Paris in 1928, has been started by Legionnaires in Uniontown, Pa. "Goat" Davis, an active member of the post, and one of the most earnest boosters for the proposal to hold the national convention of the American Legion in the French capital on the tenth anniversary of Armistice day, is responsible for the club.

Davis proposes that each Legionnaire put away at least $2 each week from now until 1928, which will give sufficient funds to make the trip and return.

Sentiment in the Legion clearly indicates a desire to hold such a convention in Paris. At the first national convention, a committee was authorized to study feasibility of a Paris pilgrimage, which would be in the nature of a visit to the battlefields where the Americans trod in 1917 and 1918, as well as for administering business of the Legion. A number of posts have already formed savings clubs along a line similar to that suggested in Uniontown.

Legion Posts Provide Radio for Disabled

Use of the radio for entertainment of disabled soldiers in government hospitals is one of the principal activities of several posts of the American Legion in larger cities.

"Legion Night on the Air," established by the Kings county (N. Y.) posts of the Legion, is one of the first and most popular of these. Artists well known throughout the country are frequently heard on this program. Recently, all posts in New York combined in a great program which was broadcast by the powerful WEAF station. One of the headline attractions was the singing of Christian Holtum, himself a disabled man and Legionnaire, who since his return from service has been giving concerts throughout the country. Thais Magrane, an A. E. F. entertainer, and president of the auxiliary unit to the S. Rankin Drew post of the Legion, an all theatrical post, also read several numbers on the program.

SHOULD ALL BE IN THE ORGANIZATION

Walter M. Pierce, Governor of Oregon, says regarding the American Legion:

"Such a body of men organized into a compact whole, can and will wield an influence that will make it possible for this nation to safely ride the severest storms that the peculiar economic conditions of the World war may cause.

"Since American institutions came into existence, students of the world have freely predicted their early decline, alleging that when the opportunity of acquiring free land was gone and the cities grew large, the peculiar character developed by the sturdy farmer of America would be lost in the whirl of great city development. There are those living who believe such a time is approaching.

"The four million boys who received their military training in the late war, all eligible to the American Legion, when gathered, as they should be into that great organization, will constitute the greatest single force in defense of American institutions."

NEW DIVISION IS NOW IN OPERATION

A new division is now in operation at national headquarters of the American Legion. This, authorized by the fifth annual convention, will handle preparation of a program of post activities and membership detail. It will include an educational course for officials of local posts, and other plans to put Legion efforts on a high plane.

This division was formerly an activity of national headquarters during the earlier days of the Legion's organization, but because of the expense attached, had been ordered consolidated with other work. Under mandate of the convention in San Francisco this work will be amplified to meet requirements of the organization, a suitable appropriation having been provided.

Prior to the appointment of Russell G. Creviston as national adjutant to succeed Lemuel Bolles, he had, as assistant adjutant, done much of the work in this direction. At the 1923 department adjutant's conference Mr. Creviston reported the results of a survey made of the entire 11,000 posts of the organization in regard to relation to the communities served, what the definite programs of these posts showed, and actual accomplishment. With assumption of the duties of national adjutant, and the authorization of the new division, Mr. Creviston has relinquished active prosecution of the work, though it remains under his direct supervision.

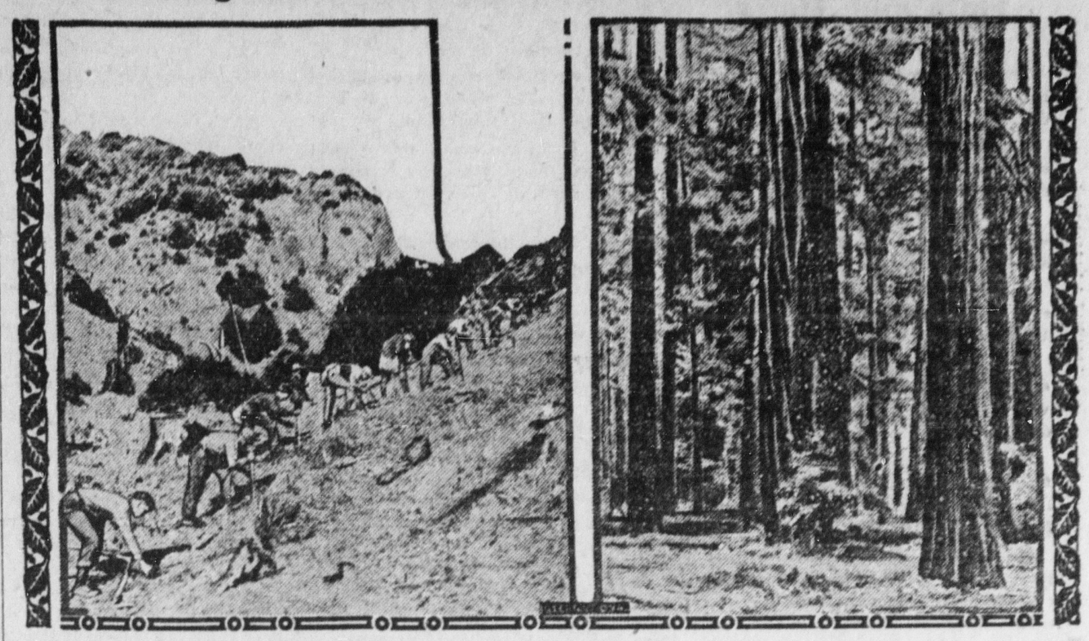
Frank E. Samuel, for four and one-half years department adjutant of the Legion in Kansas, has been granted a leave of absence by department officials to take charge of the newly created division. Samuel, one of the best known workers among administrative officers of the Legion, was chosen for this work because of his intimate touch with the posts in the field. The Legion in Kansas serves 380 communities and regularly enrolls more than one-third of all the service men the state sent to war. Perhaps in no one state is the influence of the local post so carefully responded to as in Kansas. The Legion there had the greatest number of posts participating in the "community chest" raised in its cities; it secured passage of the bonus bill which brought to the former soldier the greatest amount of money—$1 for each day of service; it established a state-wide publicity service that has gained much favored reputation in every section; and succeeded in endowing the fund of $100,000 provided in acceptance of the Dabney gift for a national home for Legion and World war orphans.

Samuel was an enlisted man during the war, serving in the military intelligence and operations section of the Three Hundred and Fifty-third Infantry, an all-Kansas regiment, and a unit of the famous Eighty-ninth division. At the signing of the armistice, he was attending an officer's training school in France. On his return to the United States, he affiliated with the Legion, and soon thereafter became department adjutant. In point of service, he is the third oldest now at work in 60 Legion departments.

Planting Redwood Forests for Future Generations



Men in this photograph are shown providing a future redwood forest covering for a hillside too steep and too rocky to produce anything but timber. This is in connection with a plan for preserving for future generations the giant redwood forests of California. The program, inaugurated by the California Redwood association, calls for the replanting of 1,000 acres in 1924, 3,000 in 1925 and so on until 1930, when the scheme will have been perfected. At the right is a view in one of the redwood forests still standing.

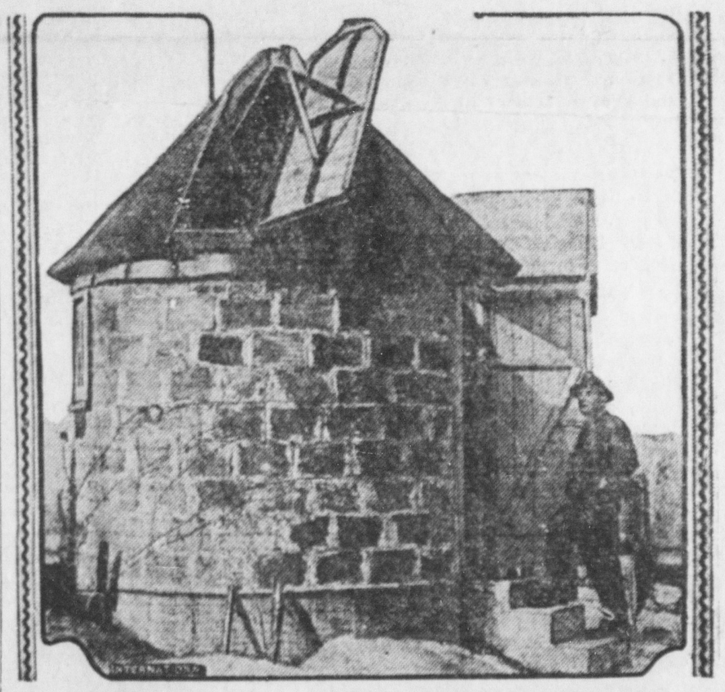
Observatory Built by Iowa Farmer



Being seventy-two years of age is no handicap to Frank Carrington, a farmer of Washta, Ia., and an authority on the solar system. Carrington determined to build an observatory on his farm and proceeded to do so. While not very large in size, it is equal in effectiveness to many of the country's largest observatories. The entire roof may be turned in any direction with the slightest pressure of the hand. The cost of building this one-man observatory was just seventy-five dollars.

Of course, the boy was not hurt in any manner, having unconcernedly walked along the highway without realizing his danger or the trouble that he was making.

Plant-and more Plant

During 1922 we added twenty millions of dollars' worth of equipment to our plant in Pennsylvania. Last year the figure was thirty millions. Those were record-breaking years. This year it will be forty millions. As far as we can see now, the coming five years will require about $173,000,000.

These figures are not of our making. The people of Pennsylvania by asking us for telephones—more and more telephones—are telling us how much new plant we must add.

Although the figures are large, we're in this business to give you all the service you need when you want it and where you want it.

And all of it is for construction—none of it goes for operating expenses. None of it goes for maintaining the equipment; although, of course, both maintenance and operating expenses increase as the telephone plant grows.

These millions must be raised largely in the form of new investments in the property.

Our business is not alone to spend this money as economically as possible. We must also, by sound business management, continue to hold your confidence, for it is to you that we must come for these new investments.
